PRESIDENT'S REPORT

The club had what could only be described as a disappointing season. It is difficult to comprehend the results in the context of the buoyant mood and not unrealistic high expectations held at our gradings night before the first round.

We can learn from this, as a club and as individuals.

The highlight, from a team perspective, was the comprehensive victory in the Grand Final by the womens' team. As we heard on presentation night, the effort to progress from not having enough players at the start of the season to premiers, was remarkable. Well done to Nikki Martel and her team.

There were two standout individual performances for the season, from one of the youngest players and one of the more senior members.

Dan Christian won selection in the Australian U 19s. He also matured into a top notch first grader, scoring a super 100 and taking 10 wickets in one match. Hopefully first class honours are not too far away.

Our club Player of the Year was Rob Stark with an amazing 58 wickets at 12.81. Rob is now the leading wicket taker for the club in grade cricket with 481 wickets. Starky personifies what club spirit is all about and is an inspiration.

For the first time the club fielded two junior teams, U 14s and U 12s. We look like expanding the number of teams and age groups. This is a good long term decision for the club. It also brings with it a responsibility to educate youngsters in both playing skills and etiquette. We will continue to formalise our approach and integrate our junior administration into the club. Thanks to Kevin Connor, Paul Allen, Henry and the other dads that helped out.

Off the field there are people that require special mention.

Congratulations to Matt Sanders for attaining Life Membership status. Everyone is aware of how much Matty has done for the club and his honour is well deserved.

Peter Richardson was the deserved recipient of the Clubman of the Year. He is always there and nothing is ever a problem. I sincerely thank Peter for his tireless contribution.

Thanks also to Henry, Disco, Jim Plunkett-Cole, Jebby, Orca, Heyso, Darren Sue, Mick Magg, Mike Gregg, Jim Butler, Paul Serov and the other committee members for running the club. I also thank Jeff Hargrave, Spike, Selby, Ray and Warren. The VG was rated 6th best ground in first grade.

Finally in reviewing this season, I would like to acknowledge our major sponsor, the Randwick Labour Club.

Next season will see the "new" Sam Cracknell and improved practice facilities at DP which I hope will contribute to a positive attitude to improving both on and off the field. Your committee is already planning improvements in our approach and commitment to greatly improving the club's overall performance.

Peter Jourdain

Club Pres presenting Dan Christian with a token of the Club's recognition of Dan's achievements in forming part of a successful Australian U19 World Cup side - not to mention a couple of awesome 1st grade efforts in 2001/02.

COACHING REPORT

After our hard work of last season I can only report that this season was disappointing. Having finished in the Top 6 of the Club Championship and four grades in the semi finals last season, this season's expectations fell well short of the mark with only 5th grade making the semi finals. 1st Grade showed some improvement this season under David Carson's leadership. Some of our younger players in 1st Grade are gaining valuable experience and are starting to work the game out a little better. Hopefully this will flow through to a further rise up the ladder next season.

Again our pre season started back in July with Dave Heysen looking after the players' fitness. This was followed by our net sessions at the Village Green. Good attendances at training were promising with upwards of 70 players at any one training session. We finished up our pre season with trial games against Sydney Uni.

To all the people who helped out during the season to run training I would like to thank you. With special mention to Peter Richardson who did an outstanding job running the book. Richo did anything asked of him and more, including fielding drills, general advice, and keeping batsmen and bowlers happy at training (which isn't an easy task). Jeff Hargraves as our cricket admin man who also helped out at training when possible. Jeff also looked after our wet weather bookings at the SCG and alerted players to changes in practise schedules. Luke Sutton, who was our English import, was back with us after a few years absence. Luke set the standard at training by always being there and working hard at improving his skills and the skills of people around him.

I would also like to thank Ray Galway and staff for their excellent practise wickets at the VG. At times wet weather made it hard to have turf wickets this season but you knew Ray would generally have wickets ready if possible.

One of the more promising things for the Club this season was the improved showing of Dan Christian. This led to him playing for the Australian U19 team. The experience and knowledge he has gained this season will make him a real force next season.

Overall a season that promised a lot early but didn't really deliver. Again, attendances, after being good early, dropped right away later in the season. Players dropping out of sides this season was a real problem. Unfortunately sides picked at the start of the season didn't resemble anything like them after a few rounds. We again need a big lift by the Club to push ahead for the coming season.

Geoff Milliken – Club Coach

2000/01 Clubman of the Year (David Jebb) presents the well-deserved 2001/02 Clubman of the Year (Pete Richardson) with his award at the Annual Dinner held, for the first time, at the Randwick Labour Club. Pete has been a wonderful addition to the Club in the last couple of seasons and probably achieved this award in record time. Two fantastic Clubmen in one photo.

FIRST GRADE REPORT

Season 2001/2 was in golfing terms about a par for the 1st grade bees, as the perennial midfielders lived up to their game yet again. However, positive gains were made to the squad through some new additions to the clubs ranks.

Quite a few of the clubs playing resources throughout the year were utilised in first grade as the club succumbed to individuals off field commitments and various ill timed injuries. As performances displayed, contribution of these players positively indicates the playing depth we have in the club.

Bearing current player strength, club management and facilities in mind, I think the UNSW first XI, and club, can look optimistically towards the coming season. Consequently, it is logical to align our team and club goals towards being a consistently dominant force in the Sydney grade competition.

However, it is readily acknowledged that these goals are only attainable through improvement both as a team and as individuals. Drivers for this incremental improvement process and can be derived through analysing past performances and identifying successful training and playing approaches. This report aims to identify some of the successful approaches adopted by the team, as well as highlighting particularly successful individual approaches.

Generally speaking the team process employed before christmas was excellent. After numerous discussions with the wizened Pete Richardson and others, it was collectively decided that focus was to be given to the important but basic processes required to play well. Building partnerships, operating with specific plans and playing as a team were all theme that were effectively utilised and built upon.

There were numerous instances of pairs successfully bowling in partnership last year, but as time and paper are at a premium, I will choose one example, the Penrith game. Dan and Wazza combined to take the whole 10 Penrith wickets between them. Dan bowled brilliantly on this day, capturing a personal bag of 8. He was in full control of direction and movement of the ball, in the air and off the seam. Wazza realised this, and provided the perfect foil for Dans spell on this day by consistently building pressure up the other end. Wazza made runs such a premium that he finished the day with figures of 2 for 8 off 16 miserly overs.

Clearly value can be gained from the process of understanding what the individuals bowling partner is trying to achieve. From this understanding, a collective approach to the removal of the batsmen can be devised. On this day the process was employed. It worked quite well. Look at the results.

Consistent partnership building with the bat was undertaken by the top order engineroom of Richo and Sutts. Simple plans involving patience, thoughtful shot selection and excellent running between the wickets were utilised effectively. With this stability at the top, firm foundations were laid for our innings together with formation of a readily identifiable structure for our days batting. Particular attention should also be paid to Watto, who featured heavily in an impressive amount of significant partnerships, often which led to victories.

Teamwork was another concept that was developed sporadically throughout the season. One of those such days was against Parramatta, where the very essence of teamwork was encapsulated. As a cohesive unit we scrapped, fought and tussled our way to a win. Each crucial stage in the game someone elevated the standard, which lifted the group collectively and generated a positive outcome.

Being part of games such as that really make you realise and appreciate why one spends so much time whiling away the hours during the summer months, playing a game that few understand or appreciate.

Strength of player depth can be revealed by looking at the number of players who made successful debuts in the top grade. An obvious candidate is Gavin McDonald. Gavo played exceptionally in his one first grade game, top scoring in our second innings in what were very testing conditions to say the least. Shot selection and an unflappable temperament are hallmarks of Gavs game, which will get ample opportunity to be utilised next season.

Other notable rookies include Eric Zehner. Hagar can potentially add another dimension to the first team line up. His ever improving middle to late order batting and excellent fielding combine well with his left arm benders. His bowling came together nicely in our win against Manly, and displayed him taking utmost time and care to bowl to his field. Patience and strategy paid off for Hagar as he captured two vital wickets at a good economy rate, even managing to grab a first class scalp! (phelpsy).

KD brought a new and effective method to the club from his engineering background. The process of measure, control, improve was adopted by KD at training, religiously noting the accuracy and effectiveness frequencies of his different deliveries. This process proved very effective in emphasising the importance of accuracy and controlled variation when bowling. Dividends payed off handsomely for KD with a season bag of 30 odd wickets, at an excellent economy rate. Further value was added by KD in the player development area. KD is always willing to share constructive thoughts, opinions and advice with fellow club members in direct and honest manner.

Mick Watson stormed into the side, announcing himself on the first grade stage with a string of impressive knocks, including an aggressive ton againsts Wests. Self belief, aggression, focus on batting partnerships and an emphasis on teamwork all enabled Gerard to perform outstandingly and figure significantly in a lot of the games we won.

Richo provided the club with a reliable basis for which competitive totals could be amassed. Patience and the building of partnerships were effective processes which allowed him to relax and bat for long periods. Dividends came in the form of nigh on 500 before christmas, along with two important centuries. However, he was sadly let down after christmas by his aversion for calcium, and suffered another broken arm to curtail what could have been an outstanding year with the bat.

Luke Suttons consistency with the bat brought structure to the teams innings, allowing partnerships to develop and flourish. His professional approach to batting, beers, training and cricket in general added value to the side as the season progressed.

Lankys contribution to the side when on the paddock was considerable. Increased accuracy and patience with the ball proved to be an effective combination with his fast outswing and seam. All batsmen found lanky a difficult customer to handle, as is evidenced by his impressive stats. This season past proved he is in the top bracket of bowlers in grade and indicates to me that he should be aiming for higher honours.

One of the reasons the first grade squad had a smooth preparation and transition into the first game was because of our resident fitness instructor and new ball bowler Heyso. His commitment and organisational skills provided the squad with ample pre season preparation. Daves outswingers had good success in providing breakthroughs in the opposition top order and an ability to effectively reverse the ball was definitely an asset for a captain. His input as a senior player was both valued and appreciated by myself and the rest of the squad.

Shaker was invariably the teams honest seamer. Always able to bowl accurately to his field and adhere to a bowling plan, he was a captains dream. Unerring accuracy combined with movement off the seam paid dividends in the final game of season, as a deserved five wicket haul was captured.

It was a pleasure to witness the continued development of Dan Christian into a dominant force on the grade scene. Self belief and commitment towards training and playing with high standards quickly transferred potential into effective performance. Highlights of Dans year included a haul of eight wickets and 30 vital runs against Penrith, 4 wickets against Parramatta, and a century against frontrunners Mosman. Each of these performances were quality in there own right. Dan combined mature cricketing qualities of poise and clearheadedness with an ability to raise his level of performance whenever a crucial moment in the game arrived.

Rohans game adds another dimension to the side due to his aggressive approach with the bat and variety of shots to select from. In the field Rohan is definetely an asset, possessing a great set of hands and intuition in the infield. Roggie has yet to announce himself permanently on the first grade stage. However, when it happens I would like to be there...It will be a hell of a watch.

Ben Day was another addition to the hive, easily making the transition to the Bees from rival club Easts. Benny added value to the side through his calming influence and commitment to the team and club cause. It is always rewarding to play with blokes who are genuinely interested in team and club performance above individual success and as such I look forward to him dominating the scoring next season.

Nealo made a return to the club after a year in exile with the Easts club. He fitted straight back in and put on high quality displays behind the stumps, as was evidenced by him setting a record for the club for most dismissals in a season. His stats displayed a significant amount of dismissals being from stumpings, which indicates his ability with the gloves.

Jaideep Bedi, fresh from the fields of Melbourne Uni cricket club, was yet another addition of fresh blood into the hive. Bishs ability to bowl both well flighted offies and leggies provided a handy option with the ball. His competitive nature and ability on the field proved crucial and allowed us to just squeeze over the line in some close games. The boys appreciated his penchant for lateness, as the penalty was a case of amber nectar. Nice one Bish.

Minimal opportunity for valuable batting time during the initial part of the year impacted heavily on Todd Hoares season. However, several valuable and important contributions were made throughout the course of the season, which enabled the side to achieve positive outcomes. I look forward to seeing Toddy return next year feeling fresh, and ready to score mountains of runs for the bees.

Langers was our final and youngest new recruit, playing the final game of the season after a dominant year with the ball in second grade. Langers bowls, fields and plays with passion for the bees and for the game, which is invigorating to see. He will no doubt be seen more as the next few seasons unfold and his cunning repoirtiore continually refines and develops.

Finally on the playing front, I would like to mention our resident test opening batsmen, Slats. It is difficult to describe what it feels like to have a player of such rare quality in your side, but I am sure it involves the words power, confidence and invincibility somewhere. Put simply it is a priveledge to watch him ply his trade and I look forward to seeing some more of it next year.

Pete Richardson is another member of the team I would like to mention. Pete quite simply gives an enormous amount to both the club and to our side. From organisation, to management and planning of tactics, Pete has acted as a wonderful support and sounding board for myself and the club. I thank him for his tireless efforts and hope we can repay him by our side consistently playing as he knows we can. That is our challenge for the coming season.

Slats gets the 1st Grade season off to as good a start as he probably can with an innings and bowling dominating 111 vs Gordon at Killara. Here he is acknowledging the crowd upon reaching his ton. Unfortunately he lacked support during the innings and we were chasing too many because of a slightly lacklustre effort in the field against a revamped opponent.

Here's that State selector again – he's heard about Mathew Hayward's apparent rekindled enthusiasm and is looking to him to take on the injured Shane Lee's all-rounder role in the State side.

Our new Barr-Turn award winner – Peter Carson. With his 1st grade appearances seemingly a distant memory, Pablo looked to an early retirement and useful days on the beach this season – but was “recruited” back in to 5ths and almost got them to a premiership. Many would take the Barr-Turn ahead of a premiership (unfortunately).

SECOND GRADE REPORT

Season 2001/2002 was a frustrating season not just for our on field performances and results, but also because of player availability, weather interventions, particularly at training,. These resulted in a season that lacked momentum. Losing a lot of experienced players from the past two seasons finals appearances hurt us a lot. We didn't realise their value until they weren't there.

In saying that though we must move on, our form after christmas was an indication of this.

At the start of the season, player unavailability meant the first choice captain, Darren Stephens, had to play up a grade, which he did very well. Second choice skipper Matt Hayward was only able to do one match at Penrith due to University commitment and then it was left in my hands. To say it was a learning experience would be an understatement. After a few discipline problems before Christmas and the side became more stable, the results began coming our way as well as some much needed club championship points.

A last ball outright victory versus Parramatta was on enjoyable way to get the first points on the board. But it was our victories over Sydney Uni, St George, and Mosman who where all in contention for the finals were our best results and performances as individuals and as a team.

We must look at our attitude towards away games. Our only away victory came against Sydney Uni. The poor performance on the road is an area where we can improve and need to improve if we are to become successful again.

PLAYER PROFILES

Graheme Meredith

Graheme played 12 matches and was a reliable player for 2nds all season. Half centuries against Randwick (56) and Fairfield (66) were Sneakies two best knocks. Grahemes tendancy to play his shots early proved his downfall on a few occasions. On other days they got us out of a sticky situations against Randwick and off to a flyer against Fairfield. His accurate bowling was also called upon particularly in the one dayers. A best of 3/8 off 6 overs (SYD) and 1/57 off 23 overs (CMBTWN) were his best bowling returns.

Current Med studies don't allow him to put as much time into his cricket as he would like but some Saturday he always enjoys himself and is a great team man.

Rowan Hamman

306 runs at 27.8 is an injustice to Roggie's talent. Had a number of starts (20-40) An outright avoiding 51* (Campbelltown) and 44 vesus Randwick where his main returns. His fielding skills particularly in the slips were excellent, 6 catches and 2 runouts in 8 games is proof of this. Rowan's wide array of shots and the nature in which he bats will see him net a number of fruitful seasons. Five months in England and a good start to next season will see him back in the first's.

Damien Shirazi

The second of our English Imports, Damien Shirazi probably didn't enjoy the season he would have hoped for. 301 At 23 with just one hundred (107 vs randwick). Chipped in with a few overs through his nine matches and returned 2/29 (8) against Sutherland bowling his little seamers.

Damo will return to Hampshire a better player for the experience of Australian condition, style of play and the various cultural and social distractions that you encounter. Good Luck.

Gavin McDonald

Gavin McDonald was the leading batsman in second's and his selection in firsts was well deserved. A patient 63 against Sutherland and 95 against Sydney Uni set the foundations for big totals against these clubs. Gav's best innings was his 5 hour 121 against St George. This innings included 20 fours and was the catalyst for a big chase against Saints. Gav was very supportive in the field and through the course of the season became a very good gully fielder.

Gav knows his game very well and his temperament is excellent. Gav has all the attributes of a successful first grader.

Andrew Langdon

Our most successful bowler for the season was Andrew Langdon. 25 wickets at 25 is an impressive return for his first season in two's.

Alfie's control of flight is excellent. This combined with subtle varieties he worked on enabled him to have some fine returns.

A marathon spell of 38 overs at Campbelltown saw him pick up 6/115. His other good performances were 3/30 (11) Parramatta, 3/26 (10) Manly and 3/37 (10) Sydney Uni.

Alfie is a real talent with the ball and with continued work on his batting, fielding and concentration will see him take lots of wickets in 1st grade.

Eric Zehner

Eric had an indifferent season. He got off to a slow start with both bat and ball but after his return from 1st grade performed both disciplines to a high standard. Eric compiled 58 against North Sydney, but undoubtedly his best game for the club was his aggressive 90 with the bat and 5/60 (20) against Mosman. This day saw the variety of swing, bounce and pace from a left armers. If this gets reproduced next season he will be a handful for any opponent.

Hagar's improved batting and his confidence in his team mates and his own ability was always good to have around the changerooms.

Andrew Neilan

The return to the club of someone with Andrew's natural ability is always welcome. Neilo returned 16 catches and 9 stumpings in 11 games which is excellent. His aggressive keeping, exceptional glovework and work up to the stumps were excellent. His batting was disappointing to say the least and had no score of note. Andrew needs to get more out of his batting if he's doing to return to 1st grade. Andrew's knowledge and ability to read a game and opponent was always good to turn to. It will be good to see one of the best glovemen in the state back in first grade and doing well.

Christoph Vonwiller

Christoph played a valuable role with both the bat and ball last season. Always doing the little things well without getting the rewards of some of the other players. Beetle always seemed to be involved in crucial partnerships with the bat and bowled disciplined line and length to keep the pressure on with the ball.

31 vs Sutherland, 34 against Mosman were both good innings. But his 29* against Parra to help us to a final ball outright was a fine innings under pressure.

His best return with the ball was 3/31 (8) at Penrith.

The veteran of the side, beetle was always good to turn to for some advice. Plays the game with great enjoyment and another great guy to have on the team.

Chris Thomas

Ocgy had a bit of a frustrating season. Missed the first four and last three matches with shoulder problems. Chris' best effort was his 5/73 off 27overs. This was an exceptional performance and included 17 overs straight in the last session. Through the spell he kept charging in and hitting the pitch hard on a flat wicket. This is one of Chris' greatest attributes and if he keeps himself injury free he will get some good returns in the coming seasons.

Brett Bannerman

Brett Bannerman arrived at the club from South Sydney and quickly worked his way into 2nd grade. Hits a length and has excellent control of swing. Best figures of 4/54 (14) Parra and 3/27 (9) Campbelltown. Increased fitness levels and some work on fielding will see banners pushing for a 1st grade position.

Todd Hoare

Only had the one score of 96 against Mosman in which he showed his full array of shots particularly square of the wicket. A lack of confidence was evident in the batting and when he regains this the big scores will come.

Jaideep Bedi

Jaideep arrived at the club from Melbourne Uni and fitted in well straight away. No bi scores but his 31 against Randwick were well needed runs. Bish is a very accurate off spinner and his ability to bowl ong economical spells was quite welcome. His best returns were 5/106 (30) and Hawksebury and 2/90 (21) vs Randwick. Bish played half a season in 1st grade as well and was a vital aquisition to both grades.

Sohail Mohideen

Sohail came into the side after Christmas and had an immediate impact with 55 against Fairfield and 93 against Hawkesbury. As usual Sohy was magnificent in the field taking 2 catches and creating 3 run outs.

Other individual performances of note were Danny Bhandari's match against Parramatta from which he returned 4/39 (18) and 67 with the bat. Warren Saunders bowled a few overs before his move to Dubbo. He collected 3/50 (22) against Easts.

Matt Hayward's effort with the bat at Penrith was excellent and the 6/44 (14) gave us a slim hope of a win, which didn't eventuate.

Michael Watson scored 93 at Sutho before being selected in 1sts, but the outstanding performance of the season came from Ben Day. His 6 hour 193 was an excellent innings and saw him return to 1st grade very quickly.

Darren Stephens, Mark Leahy, Tim Cox, Chris Britton, Greg Dennis, Andrew Johnston, Ian Foster and Ben Lockett also played 2nd grade - Thanks for the effort you put in.

THIRD GRADE REPORT

I didn't have to remove the Thesaurus from the bookcase to find a word to describe 3rd Grade's season - a season in which we finished 15th on the ladder, losing the last six games in the process. "Poor" serves the purpose nicely.

Perhaps, with the benefit of hindsight, such a season was inevitable. The Club was buffeted by a personnel exodus both prior to, and during, the season. Third Grade suffered from this as much as any team. For us, it manifested itself in a distinct lack of batting depth.

However, at the Christmas break there was no sign of the catastrophe the New Year would bring. We had won 5 games plus the bye, with two losses and a draw. On 36 points, the semi-finals seemed assured. Of course, this only renders our descent to the bowels of the competition all the more startling.

A close look at the way we were winning makes it less so. In every game we won pre-Christmas, one or two batsmen scored heavily, the rest next to nothing. For several games, it was the same one or two batsmen. Once the well went dry for these guys post-Christmas, and the other couple who had made runs were in 2nd Grade, the lack of depth in our (and the Club's) batting was exposed. So began the slide.

Ironically, the 3rd Grade team had the services of players with vast First Grade experience (Pratt, Johnson, Horley) for most of the season, with cameos from others (Dixon, Hayward, Milliken). However of these, only AJ and myself played close to a full season, and we contributed little post-Christmas.

On the positive side, our bowling attack produced consistently throughout the season. A perusal of the bowling stats shows that of the seven players who bowled 40 overs or more, five averaged under 24, and three of those under 19. Overall, the guys did their job, and did it well.

Some individuals (mainly bowlers) deserve mention. Greg Dennis was the backbone of our attack, bowling more overs (169.4) than anyone else. With 21 wickets at 23.67, he was a deserving winner of the bowling award. Mick Mag (16 wickets at 18.63), despite the burden of Barr-Turn incumbency, bowled (and batted) with the determination, ticker and passion with which I've come to associate him. Ben Lockett (15 wickets at 21.13), joining the team in Round 7, exhibited a fine outswinger on a regular basis. Jon Horley (13 wickets at 16.92) showed glimpses of the top-grade firebrand he once was, and Chris Vonwiller, in only 49 overs before being snaffled by 2's, showed his class and reliability with 9 wickets at 15.67.

As for the batsmen: Andrew Johnson looked every inch the elegant, quality batsman he is in compiling 474 runs at 36.46. However, he scored practically all of them pre-Christmas. Sohail Mohideen, in his 8 games for 3's, racked up 284 runs at the excellent average of 47.33. Ian Foster showed promise in his 5 innings, averaging 32 in totalling 128 runs.

Finally, a personal indulgence. After 25 years of cricket, the last 17 for UNSWCC, it's time for me to stop. The enjoyment that sustained me over that period has simply evaporated. For the majority of those 17 seasons, playing cricket for the UNSWCC was central to my existence. I couldn't get enough cricket; game days and training meant fun in the sun with a bunch of great blokes; the dressing room after a win was the Promised Land itself; and as for Saturday nights...I couldn't do them justice within the confines of this report; it is perhaps enough to say that those nights, at whatever pub we were calling home, were the essence of why I played. I'm probably proving my obsolescence, but the staid, septuagenarian, cocooned environment of the Randwick Labor Club, or any place like it, is not for the UNSWCC. Summer Saturday nights spent there are but a tepid imitation of the halcyon days.

The UNSWCC certainly gave me more than I gave it. If I had to choose its greatest legacy, it would be the close friendships I forged under its banner. Put simply, my life is enriched because of my time with the Club. To be able to say that of anything - sporting institution or otherwise - is rare. For this and so many other reasons, the UNSWCC is to be cherished.

Our new Annual Dinner MC was to be the third grade skipper this year - except his form saw him establishing a pretty consistent spot in twos. Sohail had a very good season and hopefully is looking for a "full" season soon so that his potential and ability are best realised as a cricketer.

FOURTH GRADE REPORT

Fourth Grade's season came to a disappointing end when, after going into the last round in third position and with a home final beckoning, we missed out on the finals altogether by .01 of a quotient point – something like 20 runs or one wicket one way or another over the course of the summer.

In such a situation you can always look back at things which could have been different and very simplistically we could say we missed out on the finals due to a poor batting performance under pressure on our final day. However in reality we had at that stage nearly performed something of a minor miracle in getting there after unavailabilities throughout the Club had severely disrupted the guts of our season. The level of this disruption was unprecedented in my twelve years at the Club – borne out by the fact that 33 people played Fourth Grade during the season.

After three rounds, with competition for places keen and with a bowling attack bolstered by Brett Bannerman and Plugger Lockett (both of whom finished in Second Grade), we were clear competition leaders. Then, when the craziness started, we lost five out of our next six games, a couple to moderate teams who finished well below us in the competition. When some measure of stability returned to our side in mid-January, we played some good cricket and won four tough games in a row, three of them against sides who were also in finals contention.

While I do not mean to be park out unavailabilities as the sole reason for Fourths missing out on the finals (no matter who we had in the side, the University Batting Collapse was, as usual, always lurking), the disastrous middle third of our season did highlight a problem that the Club needs to address. I believe we have wandered into an era where too many of our players have a purely recreational attitude to their cricket, which is inappropriate for a Grade club. I imagine this culture would be at home in Spires cricket and in the current climate its continuation could see us becoming part of that scene. From November to early January it got to the point where we were retaining or even promoting players who were out of form, entirely due to our thin numbers. The rest, our results, was all pretty logical.

I'm sure that many of the things our players did this season to participate in life's rich pageant instead of being available for every game will result or has resulted in them being happier, better balanced people. However, the fact is that for the Club to be successful in Grade we need to give cricket some priority in our lives for seven months of the year. Perhaps in a University environment this is not always easy but we must get over this if we are to succeed. When we do, some of us might play for New South Wales or Australia along the way, albeit with some sacrifice – perhaps coming back early from schoolies, going on winter holidays and skipping the wedding but going to the reception.

Now for the positives. In all of the various combinations Fourths put on the field this year the effort and spirit was excellent and the sense of "team" real. Our new players contributed greatly to this and it was truly enjoyable to be on the field and in the dressing room with them. Amongst this we also discovered some young talent who hopefully will progress to higher levels and to me, this is just as important as winning lower grade premierships. We played good cricket for the majority of the time, behaved better than most sides and always did it while retaining our sense of humour. It was fun.

The major players, in vague batting order were:

David Jebb – a lot of starts and no hundreds.

Tristan Thompson, a player in a constant state of knowing that none of it really matters, came into the side after three rounds and had a good season at the top of the order. His sound technique and unflappable temperament enabled him to play long innings and his hundred against Mosman on a seaming deck was the type of dig that has been far too rare in recent Uni history. With further development I'm sure he will succeed at higher levels and in the near future he should be an important part of our PGs side.

Tallaesen Fleming shouldn't be sniffing around Fourth Grade at this stage of his career and his batting generally looked a cut above the rest in the five games he played for us. What may determine where he ends up playing is how much time and effort he wants to put into his cricket while it competes with the other areas of his life – I played with two of his brothers and I think this dilemma may well be in the blood!

We were fortunate to get Smokin' Big Dog Jim Dixon on board when he came out of semi-retirement when things were getting dire on the player availability front. As always, Disco was a selfless team man, a lesson in line, length and movement with his bowling, the cause of great captaincy stress with his ultra-attacking batting and, despite constantly foreboding doom about himself in the slips, the snarer of a couple of brilliant catches. He also provided a steady stream of considered and valuable advice to me as captain and last but definitely not least, cold beer for everybody in the dressing room.

Michael Pigg looked to have all the ingredients to score plenty of runs but never quite got going. His highlight was 52 against ultimate grand finalists Manly, but a holiday not long afterwards may have cost him some momentum. Piggy's contribution to a happy dressing room was quietly significant.

Although new to the Club, Ryan Butta quickly proved himself to be a unique individual and was another who made a significant contribution to the excellent spirit in the team. He would have been the player in the side most affected by withdrawals, and received several chats about why he was being dropped, only to be recalled a day or two later. He took all of this with good humour and could always be counted on for a 100% effort in whatever he did. As one of the few genuine all-rounders in the Club, some minor tightening of his free-flowing and natural batting and a bit more consistency in his always-bound-to-be-underrated bowling will see him develop into a very valuable player.

There is no doubting Olvier Higgins is highly motivated to move "up the order" with both the gloves and the bat. His batting, not his strong suit when he arrived at the Club two seasons ago, progressed a lot this season and his 42 not out against Sydney Uni when we had collapsed was an innings he couldn't have played a year earlier. He certainly has a sound technique in place and the next step for him will be developing promising twenties into longer innings – hopefully his winter in Evercreech batting at No.3, which will carry with it a bit of pressure from the locals to perform, will further expand his game. His keeping was good for Fourth Grade but probably didn't progress to the degree that his batting did. If he is to achieve his desired promotions in a club chockful of 'keepers he will need to put in a lot of work outside of what the Club routinely provides on a Tuesday and Thursday – so that when he gets in the middle he catches everything he should, all day, every day.

Gary Fuss came into the side in the second half of the season and had an immediate impact on our ability to bowl sides out. A genuine strike bowler, some of his spells wouldn't have been out of place in Second Grade. With the new ball he always put pressure on the openers and sweeping aside the tail bowling fast and straight was a specialty of his. His willing and unselfish attitude made captaincy a lot easier and his addition to the side went a long way towards making us finals contenders (again). Never one to push his own barrow, it emerged that our judgement of his batting may well have been seriously awry when his prolific run scoring feats in Canberra 1st Grade were casually extracted from him during the last game of the season.

After returning from an unsuccessful stint in Thirds in the latter part of the season Rob Deutsche made major contributions with both bat and ball at important times in our (near) run to the finals. A knee injury restricted him towards the end of the season but he could always be counted on for maximum effort and importantly, putting pressure on the openers with the new ball. His aggressive attitude at times pushed the boundaries but I believe he mellowed somewhat this season and is close to “getting it right” (although I understand that we still might have a problem when he plays his old club!).

Nick Janzen’s legspin showed enormous potential and with all the balls in place it really is just a matter of practice, and the confidence that a lot of bowling will bring him, for him to take hold of the obvious opportunities that exist in the Club. A day in the field wasn’t complete without his flipper taking a wicket and a couple of his abominable sledges.

After making a big move from Penrith, Mark Bennett’s season came to a disappointing end through injury but in the six matches he played he showed that he will be a valuable batting all-rounder when he’s back on the field. He was also on track for some sort of catching record before he pulled up lame. I’m sure 2002/2003 will be a big year for him.

Grant Butler fell into a similar category. Despite his opportunities being limited by injury, he still showed us that there will be plenty of action when he gets back on the field fully fit. In a couple of early season cameos his batting looked potentially devastating and given that his bowling is his first string, we can expect big things from him in the future.

Of the others who played Fourths, Roger Smith did a fine job with the gloves whenever called upon, David Bell played a big part with the bat in three post-Christmas games before becoming unavailable and Nigel Dornan looked to be approaching his best form before the ski fields of Japan beckoned.

To finish the playing side on an extremely positive note, Ian Foster batted very well in three games while passing through us on his way to higher grades and James Byrne showed in only two games that he is a player of rare talent and will play a big role in the Club, especially with the ball but probably also with the bat, in the future. Lastly, thanks to that mad bastard Darren Sue for his statistical work. The standard of the data he produced this season wouldn’t be out of place in international cricket circles and it was indeed helpful to be able to have so many forms of it explaining why we were crap.

FIFTH GRADE REPORT

Just give me a minute and I'll get the same old cracked record out, put it on the turn-table, get out the red wine and lament another season that could have been. It is getting a tad boring reporting every year how close we came to taking out the premiership so this year I'm not going to mention it once. I will mention the fact that we obtained three outright wins this year and actually inserted another three teams in for similar results. I will mention that only three teams scored over 200 against us and that four centuries and thirteen fifties were scored and seven 5 fors were taken. So I suppose the season was not an absolute disaster but as I near retirement (maybe within the next fifteen to twenty years!), I desperately want another premiership. Semi finals don't seem to suffice.

The main players were as follows:

Pete CARSON: I am going to mention the current Barr Turn recipient first as he became an integral part of the team. 226 runs(2 x 50's) @25, 21 wickets (bb 7-60) @ 12.43, 5 catches, 2 run outs and x amount of runs saved in the field. Not a bad effort for a bloke who had retired! I cannot thank Comrade Marshall Uri Carsonov enough for what he did for me and the team this year. I know that Pete played as a favour for me this year and I will never forget his generosity, although I heard that he actually started to enjoy himself at times. His attitude every time he went out to bat or when he bowled (Fairfield 2nd innings aside!) or his enthusiasm in the field should be a lesson to some. Pete even started to succeed off the field and I am sure that his cricket was a contributing factor to this success(every hot blooded Aussie sheila loves an athlete). Thanks again Carso and I honestly hope we have the chance to play together one more time.

Chris JAMESON: The cricketing enigma was back to his frustrating best this year. 254 runs (1 x 50) @ 23 and nine catches do not really do Jam and Scones the justice he deserves. Chris batted as well as I have seen him against the quicks this year and I really cannot remember him looking all at sea once this year. He should have scored more runs because he got starts in nearly every match. His support throughout the season was invaluable as he attended the selection meetings for me and chased up players and helped me with the worse case scenario for a captain – the bracketing of players. Jamo will have a huge season in the not far distant future and I hope I have the privilege of being there to see it One of the 5th grade cosmonauts.

Matt PLUNKETT – COLE: The Iceman made his way into the team towards the end of the season and immediately showed his obvious class with the bat, 215 runs (2 x 50's) @ 35.83 and his fielding as ever was inspirational (7 catches and plenty of runs saved). Ice was another to benefit from playing in the 5th grade side as his off field performances actually surpassed those of Carso's (better figures both on and off the field). His 54 in the semi final against Sutherland when he was 9th man out was a gem and his 60 on a very dodgy deck at Fairfield was just as invaluable. I thoroughly enjoy my time with Matty as I know I will only get 100% from him every time he takes the field. Another one of the demented cosmonauts.

LACHLAN TAYLOR: Once Lachlan got over his sore knee, sore shoulder, sore ankle, sore whatever, he ended up taking his usual 20 wickets for the year, the usual 5for when he was totally unplayable and the usual 200 catches dropped off his bowling. What was different this year was his batting. Responsible, head down, classical strokeplay are not terms readily identifiable to the name Lachlan Robert Taylor but this year was different Lachlan batted this year with all the maturity and skill that he obviously possesses but refuses to use. Tried very hard to break the all time no ball record for a season but just failed Still a genuine fruit cake and gets fruitier as each year goes by.

GAVIN HARRIS: The return of Two Dogs the second half of the season saw the usual over-rated theories that he is famous for. Never quite found the form that he is renowned for although he started to look dangerous in the semi when the residents in a near by block of units were taking evasive action. Luckily for the team Gav did not have a prolonged stint at the bowling crease as none of the games degenerated enough into a farce to allow that to happen. Loved revving the team up to reach great heights only to miss field or throw like a nancy boy himself. I have it on good authority that Beth will give him a yearly leave pass so he can once more make a dental imprint on the Dave Sherwood cup.

MATT SANDERS: The Colonel was just another Club legend to come back this year through 5ths and reinvented himself into an opening bat. I hope Ange and his twelve kids will allow him another year because a full season opening will see a lot of runs scored. His knees may be shot and his desire to keep dissipated somewhat but he still loves a good tub after the game and the excellent habit of bringing a full esky to each game shows that he still has all the skills. On a personal note no one deserves life membership more than Matt (except possibly me) and it is the recognition that he so richly deserves. One more season mate – please!

PETE MITCHELL: If you want a really good scare have a look at his stats this year. How can a bloke that looks so good score next to nothing. I just hope that Pete does not get too disconsolate about this year and comes back next year and score the amount of runs that everyone knows that his is capable of. The cheer that went up in the semi final when he went past 12 is usually reserved for test debut hundreds but this was as sweet as any hundred. It is a shame that the season did not go for another 15 rounds because I am sure that Pete would have got past 20 sooner or later.

MIKE GREGG: Fingers may not have taken many wickets this year but he was the most economical bowler in the team. It was reassuring to know that I could bring Mike on in any situation and he could dry up the runs in an instant. I have also never seen Mike field as well as he did this year and there were times out there when he was running around like a meagre 48 year old His enthusiasm grew with each match and I believe there is still quite a few seasons left in the old war horse (plus if he keeps playing then Disco and yours truly won't be the oldest ones running around)

ROGER SMITH: This man who debuted for the Club this year has already earned a place in the Club's all time fruit cake eleven and I will go out on a limb and say that he could quite easily captain the team. A truly gifted keeper, if Roger is dedicated enough and keen enough then he will reach much higher grades because quite frankly his glove work was wasted in 5th grade. Has the ability with the bat to succeed but needs to get more hungry. Less late nights on a Friday, get rid of the cold pizza 10 minutes before we take the field, try not to smoke when keeping and the bowler is in his last delivery stride and we have the makings of an excellent cricketer. A definite Barr turn winner of the future.

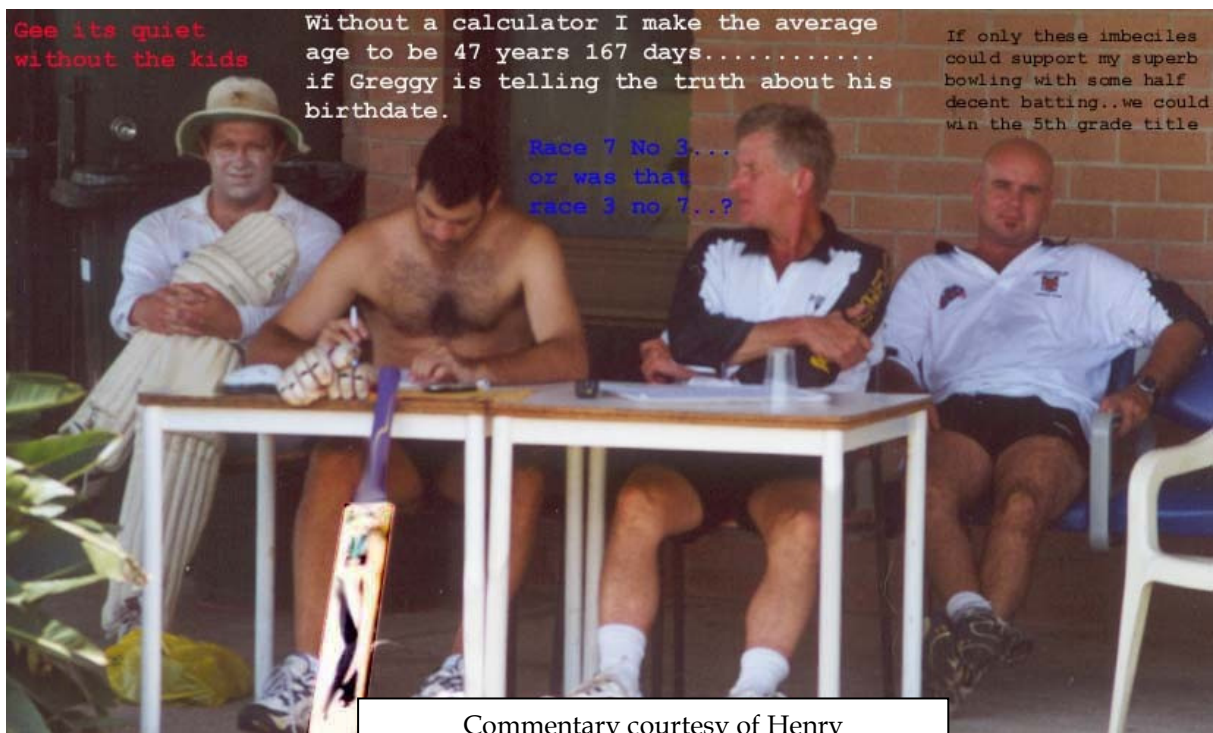

NIGEL DORNAN: The Doormat's return to Grade cricket was most welcome and here is a bloke that only ever gives 100%. He is without doubt a captain's dream. Will bat wherever, will bowl pace, will bowl spin, will field in slips, will field in the outfield, will do anything asked of his (within reason of course). Lost to 4th grade and work commitments at differing times throughout the season I have little doubt that if Nigel had been around all year we would have finished higher on the table. If any young bloke is serious about the game they could a lot worse that look at Nigel's approach to cricket. Another with many seasons left in him.

GERRAN CLOWES: Another late starter to the team but it was worth the wait. I have often said that if I was in the trenches in Gallipoli I would love to have Kit next to me. Tries so hard at times it can be embarrassing to others. Never known a bloke that at 5.30pm on the 2nd day of a cricket match to sprint between overs to his next position. His two innings in the semi were top class and he was rewarded with his first 50 for the Club. Workmanlike with the ball he really is such a dependable member of the team.

A special mention about Steve Dejong and Dave Bell. What two great acquisitions to the Club. Both will play much higher grades and I predict Steve will grace the fields of 1st grade in the future. Thanks to everyone else who filled during the season it was very much appreciated.

On a personal note I had the best season of my career. I have no doubt that playing with so many people that I classify as mates and not just team mates helped me immensely this year. I loved turning up each week not just to play cricket but to swap stories and theories with everyone. I hope my team mates enjoyed their season with me as much as I enjoyed myself with them. I hope I get the chance to do it all again next year.

Robert Stark

Matty Sanders' dodgy knees push him a little upright, while the Iceman displays the technique, alertness and enthusiasm thart make him one of the few good fielders at the Club.

SIXTH GRADE REPORT

The 2001/2002 season saw a number of changes for the club's 6th grade team. The Metropolitan Cup in which the 6th grade team competes further expanded. From two divisions of eight teams the previous season, 2001/2002 saw expansion to three competitions (Metropolitan Cup, Metropolitan Shield, and Metropolitan Plate) comprising 28 teams from both grade and shire clubs. The Metropolitan Cup (the top division) comprised of 10 teams including UNSW and seven other grade clubs. The expansion has been a boost for the competition as the stronger grade clubs were placed in the top division thereby improving the standard and quality of the cricket played.

The new season also marked the appointment of a new captain. Ruch Wickramasena, having captained the team for the previous three seasons, handed over the reigns so as to enjoy a well earned rest. His deputy, Andrew Jones, also took a sabbatical to pursue academic interests overseas. Yours truly kindly accepted the keys to the 6th grade team with a mix of honour and trepidation.

This season saw a large number of new players to the club. With selectors unsure of their abilities, a number of these players found themselves in 6th grade. Indeed, in Round 2, only two players in the 6th grade side (myself and Mustard) had played a previous season with the club. Despite, or perhaps because of, not knowing much about each other, the team quickly developed a great camaraderie and this contributed to some early season wins that kept us near the top of the table.

The early season form of some of the newcomers demonstrated their ability and it became obvious that their calling was in the higher grades. The contributions made by the likes of Michael Pigg, Ryan Butta, David Bell, and Gary Fuss were greatly appreciated before their promotions.

As the season progressed an all too familiar theme began creeping into many of 6th grades games. Although we would excel with the ball, our batting was scratchy and big totals seemed to be just out of our grasp. After successfully chasing 250-odd in Round 2, another 200 plus innings did not eventuate until Round 10. The lack of runs did not necessarily mean a lack of victories. As the season progressed, it became clear that we were a team that liked to chase totals instead of setting them. Successful run chases versus Gordon, Easts (outright), Fairfield-Liverpool and North Sydney in the first half of the season kept us in the all important top 4 going into Christmas. All these victories (except Gordon) were achieved after excellent bowling had restricted the opposition to sub-150 totals.

The New Year saw a boost in our strong bowling attack with Dutch representative Joost Leemhuis, youngster Robbie Dooley and Mark Retter making appearances in 6th grade. With a potent bowling attack we convincingly defeated Sydney University (just missing an outright) and dominated Gordon (in our second encounter for the season) before the weather foiled us on Day 2. A second victory against Easts and a win by forfeit against UTS-Balmain allowed us to finish the season 3rd on the ladder to snare UNSW's first ever semi-final appearance in the Metropolitan Cup.

Through out the season there were some stand-out performances:

BOWLER OF THE YEAR - Peter (Jerry) Maguire: Rookie Pete did not make an appearance on the field until Round 3 but quickly demonstrated his abilities with the new ball. Although he does not bowl with a great deal of pace, he used his considerable height together with clever variation to keep batsmen guessing. A haul of 22 wickets @ 13.23 was his reward. Another highlight of Pete's season was his fielding. His catch at deep mid-wicket at DP South versus Gordon would win any classic catch competition.

BATSMEN OF THE YEAR - Ian (The Big O) Ornelas: In a season where most of our batsmen under-achieved, Ian demonstrated that putting a high price on your wicket will be rewarded. Three half centuries for the season (with a total of 253 runs at 36.14) ensured that Ian was the backbone of our batting. Ian hopped between 5th and 6th grade all season and despite his success in 6th grade he could not replicate his form in 5's. Let us hope next season he can make a successful step up in grade.

Special mention must also go to Jim Maroulis. Another rookie, Jim was a serious contender for the batting (255 runs @ 23.18, two half centuries) and bowling (24 wickets @ 19.96) awards. Jim's bowling developed considerably over the season while his batting was always a danger to the opposition. If he works hard on his bowling and improves his concentration with the bat then higher grade honours are not beyond him.

In a team that was dominated by the rookies there were a number of other notable performers. Chintaka Mampitiya surprised many batsmen with his pace, line and length while his powerful hitting in the lower order marked him as an all-rounder of the future. Mayur Kulkarni, David Dunne and Victor Bourke had interrupted seasons but they demonstrated their talent with the willow with bigger things expected from them next season. Liam Smith demonstrated some handy glovework behind the stumps while he batted with flair and confidence.

Of the non-rookies, Dave Kachor was invaluable. Floating between 5th and 6th grade all season, Dave always gave 100% with the new ball and made valuable contributions with his underestimated batting. Mark Lucas proved that he is a potent weapon with the ball with some impressive performances however inconsistency plagued him throughout the season. Dave Little made a welcome return to the club and was always solid behind the stumps. The captain appreciated having Dave's experience on the field and was a constant source of ideas and suggestions.

The season was epitomised by our performance in the semi-final versus Sydney University. A strong bowling performance saw us dismiss the opposition for a modest 177. Chasing this very achievable total, our batting was at times beautiful to watch. As happened regularly during the season however, rash stroke-play and lapses in concentration saw our top-order fail to capitalise on strong starts. The exception was opener Ian Ornelas (72) who almost carried his bat and won us the game. The result was a disappointing three run loss. Some backbone in our batting should ensure that next season we can improve on what has been an impressive season for 6th grade.

I would like to thank all players who donned their whites for 6th grade this season. They made it an interesting and thoroughly enjoyable season. Thanks also to Orca and Disco and the other members of the selection committee for their very helpful advice and suggestions. A very special thanks must also go to my wife Tania for her support and patience throughout the season.

See you all next season.

7TH GRADE REPORT

ROUND 1 vs MASCOT RSL - LOSS

The Boonies learnt a very old and valuable cricket lesson on Saturday – “the team that bat when the grass is shorter – Wins” no, no sorry, that should be “catches win matches”.

ROUND 2 vs COOGEE REBELS - WIN

The question of sending them back in was asked, but with the colour in Todd’s face quickly disappearing (and the threat of seeing last night’s red wine) it was decided to go to the Donnie and watch the AFL Grand Final.

ROUND 3 vs CAPTAIN COOK - LOSS

The only highlights were – Craig Dunbar’s catch at second slip, Todd Payne’s unchanged bowling spell of 5/43. Yes, do the maths, he bowled 20 overs straight, conceding only 43 runs, out of a total of 173.

ROUND 4 vs WOLVES - LOSS

FLOGGED LIKE A MANLY DRUG DEALER!

ROUND 5 vs BOTANY - LOSS

We were all out for 81, there’s not much else to say! Only four boundaries were hit, so it was slow as well. And things went down hill from there. Botany passed our total with only one wicket down. Making us feel like an early 90s English cricket side, things got worse when they then made their intentions clear – they were batting on for a possible outright victory next week. Bring on the rain!!

ROUND 6 vs CLOVELLY - LOSS

We started well, with Victor and Schoie finding the boundaries with ease, and taking the shine off the new ball. With a slight stumble in the top order, JK steadies the innings and was looking for someone to stay with him as the target looked reachable. Another rain stoppage and with the batting stocks quickly depleting, JK had to up the tempo but was bowled, and with that went any chance of a Boonies victory. Could we bat out the last 4 overs for a draw...NO. All out 162.

ROUND 7 vs ROY UNITED - LOSS

The less said about the opposition the better, although I would like to point out that any team which calls themselves the Toy Boys only 4 months out from Mardi Gras needs to have a good hard look.

ROUND 8 vs MASCOT RSL - LOSS

The Boonies lost, but not without a fight. Coming into the final straight the team is looking the goods to not pick up the wooden spoon. With the Coogee Bay Rebels seen in training over the last few weeks, in a feeble attempt to reign in the rampant Boonies, there is no room for complacency.

ROUND 9 vs COOGEE REBELS - WIN

One hundred and nineteen (119) was the target required by the Boonies for victory. Everyone was feeling good about life – laughing, regaling past glories and conquests. That was until the total slipped to 5 for 35. Presented with one of the lowest totals for the season to date, the chase was looking wobbly. That was until Big Ned (of little car) and Steve Johnson formed a partnership which was to guide the side to safety. The 56 not out by Johnson was the highlight of the Boonies’ innings (apart from Paul Hare allowing himself to get hit by the first ball he faced and then being run out).

The innings was finished off by the Johnson brothers and an eventful game concluded with a rare Boonies victory. And while the captain talked of the merit of the performance and the spider hazards associated with the furniture moving trade, the umpire was heard to mutter “Thank fuck that is over”.

ROUND 10 vs CAPTAIN COOK - WIN

After a forgettable first round batting collapse, the Boonies posted a near record total in the second round – 9 for 270. Whilst our opposition were as amazed at our sudden form reversal as we were – anything can happen in Moore Park cricket. Craig Marchant (aka Victor) had a sound game, contributing with both bat and ball. If this form continues, the Boonies may be in the embarrassing situation of having Craig Marchant win an award of some sort. Who would actually collect the prize??

ROUND 11 vs WOLVES - WIN

WOLVES SENT PACKING!!! Moore Park 17 continues to be the Boonies most successful strip as the wolves were turned into inbred dingos on Saturday 2nd day of February, 2002. The Boonies recorded their third straight win in the Moore Park & South East Cricket Association competition – remaining undefeated this year.

ROUND 12 vs BOTANY - LOSS

Uni Boonies winning streak was well and truly broken by Botany United. After the third successive match scheduled to be played on turf at DP was transferred to nearby Rowland Park #3, the home ground advantage was once again lost – due to nature's uncanny tendencies.

The Boonies were also comprehensively beaten in Rd 13 by Clovelly (outrighted for the first time in history) and subsequently forfeited the final round due to Rugby commitments.

A sad and sorry season for the Boonies who seem to be in need of some new recruits. However, a great time was had by all and I would like to thank Steve Foster for his help throughout the season.

Todd Payne

Garry Fuss was a wonderful acquisition for the Club. This aging quick generates good pace and has a "killer instinct" lacking in many others. Here he is sending one down at DP North for 4ths.

The suspense has been built up until this stage – down to the last two...Vonwiller v Pablo Carson to be crowned the 2001/02 Barr-Turn winner. Beetle may look as though he has won – but you would have to say that is one of the beauties of this UNSWCC award. Beetle probably got away with a bit last year too.

POIDEVIN GRAY SHIELD REPORT

I find it interesting to read over the annual reports of all our competing grade teams that wear the bumble with pride, but as it has come to the report for the PG's I can only write as if we too had some input to the club, to some form of championship points, or for the sheer fact of dignity. As I cannot write about any of the above, I will attempt to bullshit my way through this entire piece of writing.

Cricket is a funny game at times - some times you win, others you loose. But when a team doesn't win any of their games for the entire season, it should be said that maybe something was missing! Talent, skill, team players - well im sure we had all those aspects but there was something missing. Something that deemed our side unwinnable! I'll call this factor "factor X". Factor X played quite a role in all our games. It also played quite a role in many of our players! For example the young promise from Manly (Sanchez) approached his skipper with complete confidence and asked "what should I do skip - bloke em out or blast em?". "Do what you feel comfortable Sanchez" said the skipper. The blink of an eye and poor Sanchez was standing in that same spot - "if only I hit the bastard it would of went for the biggest six ever" - factor X.

This factor X can do silly things to people's judgement, which is the most devastating affect of this phenomenon. A young aggressive leg spin bowler took to the pitch with more aggression and passion that I have ever encountered. This same passion and aggression continued as he was repeatedly pumped from one end of the ground to the other. After being hit for arguably the biggest six ever, he continued down the wicket and proceeded to tell the batsman just how bad he was and what a @#*^ wit he'd always been - factor X.

Although this is so there was one outstanding member of our team that could defy the power of such a factor, that member was none other than the PG's player of the year young Alfie Langdon. His controlled left arm orthodox was the highlight of our season. He was the primary weapon that stung like the bee stingers we all had (but didn't use!) It was a privilege to watch this man in action, consistently taking wickets and always slowing the run rate (as we often needed). I'm sure he will mature into a fine 1st grade bowler and may be the one that will overcome "factor X".

Many players showed real guts and determination and probably should also get a mention. Mr. Oliver Higgins impressed through his sheer determination and "want" for a win. He always gave hope and showed he can be a gutsy batsman and will go a long way for that reason. Although this is so - wicketkeepers should NEVER bowl, no matter what they say or how they rate themselves!

There are many thankyou's to the people that kept this team within some sort of order and that helped a struggling skipper press on. A big thank you to Jim Butler (manager) that attended every game and gave me great insight to the continual losses. Also Disco and Orca -without these guys we surely would have been lost. A good motivator and someone that speaks his mind (a good thing for PGs!) was Darren Sue, his presence at the last couple of games was fantastic.

In closing, we all grew from this experience and I'm sure that issues will be addressed (factor X!) and that the importance of the PGs team will be recognised.

Thankyou to everyone that gave me this opportunity,

Signing out,

Shattered Skipper

Graham Meredith

A.W.GREEN SHIELD REPORT

The 2001/2002 UNSW Green Shield campaign was one that should be considered overall pleasing but also unfulfilling and under achieving with six players coming back for their second season of Green Shield plus a number of new recruits with good potential for next season.

Most players in the squad showed obvious development and improvement in their particular skill areas yet it was our collective and individual lack of mental strength and confidence that restricted us from winning at least three more games (Wests, UTS Balmain and eventual finalists, Manly) on top of the one win (Sydney University) and the tie (Manly) we did eventually achieve.

Having said that, it was enormously pleasing to see every player in the squad learn about their own cricket at each session and each game but also to see the guys eagerly looking to learn, both individually and with team-orientated goals.

In particular, the experience and knowledge that captain, 'keeper and top order bat, Alex Braid, looked to develop on top of his undoubted natural ability and work ethic was tremendously satisfying and should auger well for future years.

The season's results and report were:

Round 1 vs Gordon at the Village Green

After losing the toss on a stinking hot day, UNSW started well by grabbing two early Gordon wickets but good batting and inconsistent bowling led Gordon to a solid total of 8/246 off the 60 overs. Andrew Plummer (0/29) bowled extremely with out luck, whilst Luke Irwin (3/32 off 8), David Ross (2/35 off 12) and Peter Levido (2/17 off 6) were the bowling highlights.

In reply, multiple UNSW brain explosions meant that we were 8/52 off 22 overs at one stage. Only late cameos by Patrick Smith (33) and Tim Hood (24*) kick us to an extremely disappointing 100 all out.

Round Two vs Western Suburbs at Pratten Park

Following the disappointing performances against Gordon, UNSW bounced back with a solid start against Wests, restricting them to 8/214 off the 60.

However our relative inexperience and ability to read situations proved costly as we failed to chase down an achievable total despite a superb innings from Alex Braid (85). With only Anthony Brooks (23) offering any support but losing his wicket at a pivotal time, Wests restricted us to 194, still 18 runs behind.

Round Three vs Northern Districts at the Village Green

On a typically faultless VG wicket, we won the toss and set a handy total against one of the better teams in the competition. Led by Anthony Brooks (82) and Tim Hood (44), we were dismissed in the last over for 203 but we again rued crucial dismissals that cost us potentially an extra 40 runs.

What followed next was both a mixture of some superb batting from two ND bats and some abysmal bowling and fielding as NDs chased 2/205 off only 43 overs.

A game that could only be described as a learning experience.

Round Four vs UTS Balmain at the Village Green

In a low scoring game, it was our collective lack of confidence and never-say-die attitude that proved the difference in an otherwise quality performance by the lads.

Despite only scoring a disappointing 130 (all out) against an attack that lacked little after their new ball bowlers, the guys came out and attacked UTS Balmain with refreshing purpose and passion.

Led by a genuinely quick opening spell by Andrew Plummer (0/25 off 12) and Luke Irwin (4/25 off 10), all the guys bowled to a plan and the standard of fielding reflected the efforts of their bowlers.

Yet, after having UTS Balmain 6/60, 7/100, and 8/101, the lads lacked the ability to land the killer blow and Balmain, to their credit, scrapped their way to an otherwise unlikely win.

Round Five vs Sydney University at Syd Uni No.1

A breakthrough win that was well deserved by the UNSW lads.

Bowling first, the UNSW bowlers never allowed Sydney Uni any latitude or width and the fielders backed that up with two quality run-outs to roll our traditional rivals for 122 off 53 overs. In a great team effort, David Ross (3/15 off 12) and Bruce Purcell (1/14 off 12) were the pick of the bowlers.

In reply, the guys chased the relatively small Sydney Uni total intelligently by batting around the anchor-type rolls of Tim Hood (35) and Luke Irwin (27*) for the loss of seven wickets to record the first (and well deserved) win of the 2001/2002 Green Shield season.

Round Six vs Manly-Warringah at Graham Reserve

Bowling first again on a low, slow turning wicket, we began well by picking up a couple of early wickets. After a reasonable partnership by the Manly 'guns', the UNSW guys bowled and fielded well to dismiss Manly for 153 off 54 overs.

After a shocking start (2/1), we seemingly looked in control as Alex Braid (59) and Anthony Brooks (20) cruised to the 100 mark with only four wickets down. However, Manly sensing an unlikely defeat and blow to their prominent egos, nervously raised their game to take a couple of key wickets.

At 7/149, all looked the good as Nick Brady (35*) roared along but our last three were outdone by the Manly attack to end the game a very unsatisfying tie against the eventual runners-up of the competition.

Round Seven vs Bankstown at the Village Green

On a beautiful batting track at the VG, Bankstown won the toss and simply belted us to all parts of the ground, with their opener (149) in particular looking like a superstar at the age of 15.

At the end of the carnage, Bankstown smashed 9/344 off the 60 overs, with only Andrew Plummer (2/47 off 12) troubling the Dogs.

Another disastrous start (2 for none) really killed any chance of a chasing the mammoth total, but the lads dug in to make sure the game was presented on a plate to Bankstown. Tim Hood (61), Anthony Brooks (46) and Luke Irwin (42) spent valuable batting time against their good attack to push UNSW to 7/185 off the 60 overs.

Whilst the season could have been more successful with some luck and experience, I feel the guys genuinely enjoyed the experience of Green Shield cricket and its small taste of future years in Grade cricket.

However, the season could not have been as enjoyable or successful without the efforts of some very important people.

On behalf of the UNSW Cricket Club, I wish to sincerely thank Howard Brady for all his countless hours acting as Manager, Organiser, some time Coach and a very helpful listener to me during the 2001/2002 Green Shield season. And to Barry Ross, a huge thanks from the Club for his willingness to assist by doing the scoring and also to help any other way. Thank you gentlemen.

Thanks also to Mrs Brooks, Mrs Plummer, Mr Irwin, Mr Somerville, Mr Purcell, Mr Dempsey and all the parents for their help throughout the season.

I eagerly look forward to seeing the development of the 2001/2002 players in future seasons - these guys can play cricket!

Jeff Hargrave

LADIES' TEAM REPORT

No doubt you've all heard by now that the UNSW Womens XI had their most successful season ever. However it was not all snow drops and whiskers on kittens for the entire season. Ours was a season of two halves. Prior to Christmas we had upwards of 25 different players take the field. We had on more than one occasion more non cricketers play than cricketers. There was also a game where we were so short of bowlers that our wicket keeper who doesn't normally bowl in the nets had to bowl, and with two legally deliveries picked up two wickets. Despite this, before Christmas due to a bit of luck we sat in 4th spot with the top 3 within our reach

In amongst those interesting games were performances such as taking the field against Mosman with 8 and beating them by 100 runs, and beating Sydnnet Uni with only seven.

Our worst performance was making only 43 against UTS Balmain two days before Christmas. We once again only had 8 players when they had 12. (We play 35 over, one day matches, with a maximum 8 overs each, and compulsory retirement at 50 runs for each batsmen)

We need to thank each and every hockey player, waterpolo, softball and rugby player, triathlete, mother, sister and flat mate who enabled us to be competitive prior to Christmas.

In the 13 games before Christmas we amassed just over 1300 runs hitting over 200 three times. We finished with 7 wins and 3 losses (one each to the other top 4 sides).

After Christmas was very different story we were unbeatable, we settled into a squad of 13, always putting 11 on the field. In the 6 games prior to the finals we plundered 1153, at an ave of 192 per game. Three times after Christmas we again hit 220 runs or better. Our best performance with the bat being 4 for 263 vs our arch enemy UTS-Balmain.

Our unspoken team tactics were to plunder each and every bowling attack we faced, to make opposition teams struggle for every run they made. Our bowling was tight and backed up by a team of fantastic fielders, we had fielders for every situation, those that prowled the boundary stopping runs and preventing the third run with a hard flat accurate throw, close in fielders with sticky hands for catches or preventing singles. And we have without doubt the best wicket keeper in the grade. Jess' reach and glove skills are to the relief of all the bowlers, especially at the dimensionally challenging Little Bay Ground!

After Christmas we won every game that we took the field for and we convincingly beat every top 4 team we faced. We finished the season in second place missing 1st by one point.

Over the past 3 seasons we have developed into a fantastic team with great depth. With each season every one of us has improved. This has been with minimal training and coaching. Just to confirm our depth any of 6 players can and have opened the batting with success, Soph and Michelle doing a fantastic job at the end of the season always managing to get the team off to a solid start. We had possibly the best opening bowling pair in the league with Gem's pace and Cass's swing always managing to get an early breakthrough. In short we were a well rounded team, we could bat to 11, and almost everyone bowls, except maybe Jess and everyone contributes in the field.

I think I'll finish this report with a few words about the team, as it was my first year as captain I seemed to fumble around pretending I knew what I was doing. After a couple of rounds I discovered the perks of the job. I now had the ability to set the field in a way that allowed me to stand in the best part of the shade for most of the afternoon, I could place my sister in the feilding position that required the most amount of running, I could bring myself onto bowl when all the good batsmen had retired or been given out, and I could arrange the batting order to ensure that the people batting around me who weren't notorious for running their partner out. Needless to say this season was the best batting and bowling performances I've ever had.

Other things I noticed, was the way the team became more determined to win the shorter the team numbers were. The way newcomers to the team, Chelle, Ferret and Karen seemed to fit right into the constant chatter on the field, by practicing pulling different silly faces, standing on their hands or pulling their legs around their neck...or maybe that was just Ferret and Jill. Our sledging needs to be worked on for next season, after spending the whole season sledging each other we might move on to sledging the opposition next season. Due to the belief amongst the majority of the team that they were 'pretty good', they felt that we didn't need to train too much.

The most impressive thing about this team was the way everyone responded to bad calls during a match. There was no cursing at each other or the umpires or most of our opponents. All in all it was a great season, played with some awesome ability and pretty good company. Thanks Lena for helping me organise stuff, Cathy for bringing the water, Jo for getting there on time, Jill and Jess for doing your best each week to get there on time, Cass for your sense of humour and talent with bat and ball, Soph for helping chat up Lucky, Karen for your dedication to training and playing, Jackie for showing up when we needed you most, Gem for your skill, knowledge and light entertainment, Chelle for your willingness to umpire, score, open the batting, whatever was needed and Ferret...maybe next season you'll do as you're told.

Other Statistical Stuff

This season Gemma scored her 1000th run while representing UNSW. Gemma has also taken her 100th wicket at an average of 9.66.

Cass this season also passed 1000 runs amassing a final total of 1184 runs at an average of 45.80. Cass is currently 12 wickets off her 100 with a current average of 10.86.

2001 UK TOUR REPORT

After a break of over ten years the Club resumed overseas touring with a trip to England and Ireland in July 2001. Twenty-five playing tourists from throughout the Club and various others (we even had a physio!) pulled on a bumblebee cap and jacket for a month and worked through an itinerary that included twenty games of cricket, two Ashes Tests and thirty consecutive nights on the piss. The program held the ingredients for many things – financial devastation and massive sleep debt being common to most tourists – but overall the brief was fairly simple: Have fun without upsetting anyone and turn up to the games on time.

Each stage of the tour had its own flavour. In Leeds and Birmingham, after a punishing “budget” flight, our party was fresh but our cricket below our best while we acclimatised to the slow wickets and fast nightlife. This, combined with the local custom to ambush us with guest first class players saw us on the wrong end of a couple of early thrashings. The writing was on the wall when a Kiwi we had never heard of before, Lou Vincent, charged down the track to smoke Dan Christian’s tour-opening delivery over cover for four. Our response of strengthening the slip cordon was well intentioned but spectacularly unsuccessful as he went on to score 62 out of the first 70. At these initial stages there was perhaps a danger of such rude awakenings becoming a bit of a pattern, but we responded in the way that any champion side would – by undertaking a moustache-growing competition.

It was true that before the tour started we would have said we would like to party hard but win everything, in particular the game against the “old enemy”, the MCC, on the eve of the first Ashes Test. We didn’t, but by the time we took our seats at Edgbaston we didn’t give a bugger about any of that. Had we been able to put in an order for the day we probably would have asked for sunshine, Australia bowling out the Poms in a couple of sessions, and an hour or so of Slats going berserk at the end. We got all of this and some of our own notoriety thrown in, with our uniform, singing and obvious connection to Australia’s opening bat making it hard for the TV cameras, or anyone else at the ground, to ignore us.

After Birmingham a more traditional sporting tour culture developed when we returned our thankfully undamaged hire cars to their owners and piled into minibuses to head for the south of England. By this time our cricket was slowly getting better and by the middle stages we were doing ourselves, and the letters we wrote to clubs when organising the itinerary, justice - albeit with an attack somewhat luxuriously endowed with spinners. Fortunately these improved performances coincided with some of our “blue ribbon” fixtures - Hambledon (Dave Carson’s club and the “Cradle of Cricket”), Bickley (Morgs’ and Tim Grosser’s old club), Wimbledon (with Paul Urquhart and Jack Horley in opposition) and Clontarf (a ‘99 World Cup venue in Dublin where Clayton Jones and Springer once played).

There can be no doubt that unique circumstances (for example, having someone from our Club in the Test side) and great weather combined to give us the tour we had hoped for. Also contributing to its success was the makeup of our party, a diverse mix of characters who blended well and were an authentic representation of our Club back home. Whether it was Porno’s mini-Barr Turn speeches, Jamo’s self-portraits, Lamby’s quest for the perfect hamburger, Robbo, Lachie and the Richos making a bumblebee fashion statement in the members at Lord’s, Henry’s daggy-celebrity cameos or our wholehearted “Stumps” efforts, we must have seemed a bit different to your average cricket club. Like we are.

The players were:

Tim Richardson: Deserved winner of both categories of the moustache-growing contest. Some quality innings but his bowling continues to disappoint. Forever into Club folklore with his “Tour de France” exploits (five sights in 24 hours by car from London).

Rohan Hamman: A fine all round tour which started at absolute full throttle and didn’t ease off until he fell asleep head first into his seat on the flight home. Somehow averaged 70.00 with the bat. Another “Tour de France” member.

Alfie Langdon: A difficult ask to fit 15 hours sleep a day into touring life but somehow he managed it.

Alex Lamb: Nothing printable.

Chris Jameson: You could synchronise watches using his 10.00 p.m. phone call home. Possible tour high point when he shouted “Howzat!” out of a car as it passed a game. Definite tour low point when he took two wickets bowling embarrassing shit against Arundel Cricket Club.

Greig Robinson: His early groin injury robbed us of a scarce commodity – line and length – but he was a general steadying influence nonetheless. Shaved his beard off for the first time since 1976 for the moustache-growing contest.

Peter Richardson: Injury limited his on field appearances but had absolutely no effect on his prodigious nightlife. Carried off the Chairman of Selectors job with the least controversy in the history of the position at the Club.

Warren Saunders: The consummate tourist, somehow managing to lead from the front on and off the field for the full four weeks. “Tour de France” participant and probably had some serious explaining to do when his credit card statements arrived back home. Taxi drivers throughout England breathed a huge sigh of relief when he boarded the plane for Sydney.

Jim Plunkett-Cole: Was the first tourist to chat someone up when he faked not knowing how his small screen worked immediately after take-off from Sydney. Produced a quality bullshitting effort when talking our entire party into a nightclub in Brighton. Sold his wicket far more dearly than his soul.

Ben Nott: Started the tour pissing in his sleep and finished it keeping in it, being the only specialist gloveman on the trip. Despite his taxing schedule, remained immaculately turned out throughout, with the possible exception of the time he shared a load of washing with Lachlan Taylor.

Dan Christian: A tour of two halves. Looked like he might break all sorts of Club records early on, threatening not just to burn both ends of the candle, but explode them. However, the news in Birmingham of his selection in the Australian Under 19 side saw him start living a little more for tomorrow.

Henry: Proud wearer of our jacket at all manner of Ashes occasions throughout England and managed one game for us between Guardian articles, skippering against the MCC. Still scratching his head about the LBW umpire P. Richardson failed to give him that day and produced some vintage stuff when loudly encouraging Dan Christian to bowl at the opposition front footers’ heads.

Mike Gregg: Underrated by every batsman he bowled against, often to their peril. Won huge respect by attending high-level business meetings sporting a very ordinary looking part-cultivated moustache.

Kieran Cleary: Team physio, reluctant player and dedicated confidant of every woman in England going through a relationship crisis.

Ruche Wickremasena: A punishing and enormously expensive personal itinerary, which occasionally coincided with the rest of the party's activities. Does anyone know if he got back?

Tim Buckett: Fortunately TB, one the few people in the Club ever to demonstrate the financial acumen and responsibility to go with their qualifications, was looking after the money. As a result we didn't run out. Bravely brought his wife on tour.

Mullen: A lovely tour, only spoilt by his pathetic turn and chase efforts in the field when his knees were buggered.

Lachlan Taylor: Nearly committed suicide when the greentops he anticipated failed to materialise. Highlights were his near hat-trick at Haywards Heath and his bat throw at Halverstown (Ireland). Could've paid more attention to the washing instructions on his tour gear.

David Carson: Somehow kept up with the party while juggling professional cricket commitments and driving around in one of the dodgiest looking cars in the UK. Showed a dishonest streak when he allowed the party to think he was forgoing a trip to France to make up the numbers and bowl medium pace against Bickley Park 2nds, when in fact he had left his passport in Southampton.

Peter Carson: The lack of reward for performing the noble art of legspin on slow wickets set in the middle of postage-stamp grounds drove him to excessive drinking (and a quick trip to Paris). Still the funniest "Stumps" player in the history of the world.

Mick Mag: It is a tragedy that Pono will be most remembered for spilling beer on Ian Healy at Edgbaston, when his efforts in coming up with a Barr-Turn style speech after every game were far more noteworthy. Appeared to need a stint at a health farm, or at least rehydration, by the end of the England leg.

Mick Elliott: Sometimes found runs hard to come by, but had no such difficulty picking up pints. Coined the phrases "Crumpet!" and "Scrumpty!" Just like at home, he was underbowled.

Keith Taylor: A marvellous tour, highlighted by his drinking Warren Saunders under the table in a Brighton nightclub, not long before strutting his stuff with some professional podium dancers. Had a big Irish leg, outscoring his brother with the bat on the first day, losing his passport on the second and missing his flight back to London on the fourth.

Damon Dermody: Sadly work commitments limited his on field appearances but he could always be counted on for some vocal support or, more often, derision from the sidelines. His unfortunate run out after provocatively taking on the field at his old club in Birmingham was "Tour Gold".

Clayton Jones: Brought some much-needed civilisation to the party.

David Quinlin: Ticked off a few long held dreams in a brief stay but sadly besmirched his hard-school reputation by being the first player to be officially disciplined for turning up late to a game.

To close I would like to sincerely thank the guys, and particularly the younger members, in the tour party. Before we left I had visions of all sorts of difficult scenarios occurring (delicate negotiations with airlines, hotel owners and police, breaking up fights, repairing cars, going to hospitals etc.) but there was none of that. As a group I believe we got the balance of fun and responsibility exactly right and represented the Club in a way that we and the Club could be proud of.

Ah, yes!!! Very original you tourists. Though, at least Messrs Jebb, Plunkett-Cole, Robinson and Richardson are genuine "Beetles Contemporaries". In fact, the subject album was probably released just in time to be the favourite music played at their youthful "Uni

Apparently the "Dirty Sanchez Party" was a tour highlight. Some impressive Porn Star material among this lot (including, of course, Porno). Though Alfie, Dan and Tubby look like they weren't even trying.

CAREER STATISTICS

The career statistics provided are limited to the details of those players who have achieved designated milestones in runs, wickets or dismissals.

At this stage in our Club's relatively short existence (particularly at a Grade level) these milestones have been set at the below indicated levels. For more comprehensive career statistics please refer to the 1998/99 Annual Report, or for the complete details of every club representative, please refer to the Club's database which is (hopefully by now) contained on the UNSWCC Website.

It should be noted that "milestone" thresholds have not been detailed for the 1st Grade one-day statistics or the Womens' career statistics. This is due to the relatively brief existence of these respective competitions.

The UNSWCC would like to again recognise the enormous amount of work and effort put in by Greg Livingstone in compiling and maintaining the career statistics database after many years of neglect by the Club in maintaining these records. Also, thanks to Darren Sue, our "Stats Nazi" (as Starky likes to call him). The comprehensive stats throughout this report are entirely his efforts and he is teaming with Livo on the Career Statistics as well. He is performing an invaluable job that the entire Club (past and present) can and will benefit from (certainly has made the Annual Report Editor's job much easier).

2001/02 Player of the Year with a record breaking 58 wicket season. And, now, the leading taker of wickets in Grade cricket at this proud club (1 shy of 500 in the All Grades and Shires Stats)- Club Legend...R Stark.

A scene from
DP North.
Why
wouldn't you want to play
cricket with Jebby at the
UNSWCC.
Here he is with Tristian
Thompson vs
Fairfield –
another
Henry
snapshot.

Is that Archie Jackson in action....or our own David Jebb?
It obviously has 4 runs written all over it - and so it should be. We need back cuts like that back in the game - at all levels...and as opposed to Jungle's "late cut" (along with all his theories).

A lot of Jebby's team mates should pay a lot more attention to their captains style and technique and they might also accumulate something in the order of 500 runs for the season (not to mention 4,069 in all grades to date for UNSWCC).

CLUB RECORDS

Team and partnership records apply to the years in the Sydney Grade Competition - from and including the season 1973-74. For records prior to the 1972-73 season refer to the 1972-73 Annual Report Municipal and Shires Competition. Performances in teams for which not all club members are eligible (Poidevin-Gray and Intervarsity) are not included - details can be obtained in past annual reports. Records for the Women's teams are still being collated. A minimum of 250 runs or 15 wickets is required to qualify for batting or bowling records. Only the initial record maker is identified for individuals and partnerships in the event of tied records.
